

How to use this guide

The Yorkshire Dales is a varied and beautiful area in the North of England, stretching from the M6 in the West to the A1M in the East, covering approximately 1,600 square miles. To help you understand the area better, we have split it into North, South, East and West areas:

Each area has been given its own colour which you will find is used (in strong and pale tones) in both the general editorial relating to the whole area, and accommodation/attractions advertisements relating to each particular area.

- Northern Dales
- Southern Dales
- Western Dales
- Eastern Dales

MAP REFERENCES

Each accommodation and attraction advertisement carries a map reference in the heading which relates to the map on the right.

The Yorkshire Dales

See the inside back cover for a guide to the symbols used on advertisements.

